- b) The Cumulative Grade Point Average (GPA) of students cannot be below 2.50 over 4.00,
- c) c) In universities, where grades are calculated over 100, the equivalent grade over 4.00 is to be calculated by the host university.
- d) (2) For the effective and efficient enactment of the Student Exchange Program
- e) Charing University has the authority to take necessary precautions and to designate additional conditions to those mentioned above in the first paragraph.

Evaluation of the Applications and Student Admission

Article 10 - (1) Charing University determines the number and distribution of students to be sent and received within the concluded bilateral protocols. Higher education institutions cannot select students to participate in the Orhun Exchange Program, before signing the Orhun Exchange Program Protocol.

(2) During the evaluation Cumulative Grade Point Average (GPA) of students meeting the requirements of application is to be taken into account.

(3) Evaluation of the results is announced on the web site of signatory higher education institutions.

(4) Within this Program, matters like extent, duration and conditions of the student selection and applications can be rearranged by the Charing University to execute student exchange in an effective and efficient way, if deemed necessary.

(5) Students studying in a foreign country as international students cannot apply at a university located in their home country.

Study Protocol

Article 11 - (1) The Study Protocol is the protocol signed by higher education institutions performing the exchange which includes the curriculum and the credits of these courses defined before the exchange period is initiated. In this Protocol, courses and their credits which the concerned student will take in the host higher education institution and substitution and credits of these courses are clearly specified. By signing this Study Protocol, the student states that the courses are approved and are to be attended. The host higher education institution confirms that the courses taken by this protocol are admitted. Accreditation of the courses is approved by the administrative board of the concerned academic unit. The Study Program admitted with this protocol should serve as the purpose of the Program the student currently studies.

(2) The Study Protocol is to be prepared and registered by the student and authorities of the signatory higher education institution before the exchange. The Study Protocol is drafted three copies and one copy is kept by each of the parties including the student. The Study Protocol is also to be signed by the related head of department and by the top authorities

the higher education institutions or authorized persons who have prepared the Orhun Exchange Program Implementation Protocol. Changes on the Study Protocol will be made within 30 days following the beginning of the academic term of the host higher education institution and this document is to be ratified by the student and authorities at the signatory higher education institution.
